CALIFORNIA STATE SCHOLARSHIP and Loan Commission reminds high school seniors and college students that the postmark deadline for the filing of California State Scholarship applications is Nov. 20. The commission especially wished to encourage students with approximately a "B" average to apply for a State Scholarship. Recent analysis of Commission statistics has confirmed that many students in the approximately 2.80 to 3.20 grade average range are not applying and with an increase in the number of new awards available they will be eligible with a reasonable test score and financial need.

THE STATE SCHOLARSHIP AND LOAN COMMISSION is pleased to announce the opening of competition for 500 Occupational Education and Training Grants provided by the Bill Greene Occupational Training Scholarship Act. Awards will be based upon financial need and made without regard to race, creed, national origin or sex. Academic achievement will be a factor in the selection process, but primary emphasis will be on vocational aptitude achievement, interest and/or experience in a specific occupation. For information, refer to: "Occupational Education and Training Grant," State Scholarship and Loan Commission, 1410 Fifth Street, Sacramento.

Bill Brown Elected President Of Seaside Chamber Of Commerce

William "Bill" Brown, a member of the Armed Forces at Fort Ord, was elected president of the Seaside Chamber of Commerce at their regular meeting of the Board of Directors, Thursday, November 1.

Brown, 41, has been a diligent worker since joining the Seaside Chamber three years ago, and became an individual member because he was interested in the welfare of the community. He is completing his first year on the board, where he is co-chairman of the military affairs committee, a member of the governmental affair committee and a member of the membership committee.

Bill, who hails from Palestine, Texas, came to the Monterey Peninsula in the military service in January 1969, and became involved in the community activities in Seaside.

He is retiring from the military in 1974 and will make Seaside his permanent residence. He is married and has one 10 year old son.

"It will be part of my program to bridge the gap between the Chamber, community and city government. Naturally, this can only be accomplished through the cooperation of these various bodies. I am hoping that I can be the catalyst through which this can be accomplished," he said.

"A lot of people think of the military man as a second class citizen. However, they have not stopped to realize that military men return to civil life. What better method of getting involved than to be come a member of the Chamber to find out about the businesses that are operating within the city? What better method is there for them to keep abreast of the changing asked.

"It shall be my goal to visit each and every business for an eyeball to eyeball meeting to get them more involved, if they are not fully involved, with the Chamber," he said.

Bill, in addition to the Chamber, is a member of the Board of Directors of the Seaside Lions Club, where he is a member of the citizenship and patriotism committee, the Refreshment Committee and the Installation Committee. He was awarded a plaque by the Lions Club for outstanding performance. The award was for raising over $1,000 for the Lions Youth Program. He received a Certificate of Appreciation for outstanding performance in 1973 at the Officers Club.

He is a 32nd degree Mason and Shriner organizations; a member of the Eastern Star; a past Worthy Patron of the Order of the Eastern Stars and a member of the NAACP.

Other electedwere Robert "Bob" McCauley, 1st Vice President; Carl Oliver, 2nd V.P.; Walter Norwick, 3rd V.P.; Dick Penrose, Treasurer, and Mark Sincoff, Attorney-at-law, Secretary.

Open House Is Monday

The YWCA's Open House for World Mutual Service Observation, an event known for 75 years as World Fellowship Week, will be held next Monday, November 12 from 2 to 5:30 p.m., at the USO of Monterey, Webster and El Estero. The committee assisting Mrs. James Jolly, Chairman, has included Mesdames J.W. Creighton, J.P. Leo, W.F. Koehler, Charles Taylor and A.G. Zavitsanos, all of Monterey, also Mrs. W.H. Church, Mrs. Craig Comstock, Mrs. G.L. Musgrave, and Mrs. Norman Schneidewind of Pebble Beach. Mrs. Charles C. Clauser, a recent hostess to the committee in Carmel Valley, has also been on the planning committee, as were Miss Mary V. Illich and Dr. Iona Logie of Carmel.

"This annual observance of World Mutual Service," Mrs. Jolly states, "demonstrates the effective will of women to advance the cause of peace and justice, freedom and dignity, for all people, through YWCA programs and services." The YWCA is a local, national, and international movement, now at work in 83 countries.

The local branch, using the USO in Monterey as headquarters, is a little more than three years old, and has recently taken on the services of a fulltime Executive Director, Miss Judith Chumlea, formerly of the Denver YWCA.

At the tea and Open House on November 12, Mrs. James M. Brittain, YWCA president, will pour, and hostesses in various international costumes will serve the guests. The public is cordially invited, including men as well as women, and families in particular.

Welfare Recipients Will Have To Report Incomes

The newly-announced monthly income reporting system for California welfare families will be in use in all counties soon after January 1, State Welfare Director David B. Swoap said recently.

"The system will require welfare recipients to report income and other basic eligibility information once a month on a new, one-page form," Swoap said. "The present form will still be used when a person first applies for welfare," Swoap emphasized. "And the annual eligibility check-up will still require the older form."

"Overall there is no decrease in the amount of information persons seeking aid will be required to supply."

Swoap said monthly reporting will make it much easier and faster to prevent overpayment errors sometimes caused by lack of up-to-date income information. Estimates are that these errors cost the state $44 million a year.

The new reporting system was pilot-tested in Alameda and Orange counties.

In addition to attacking reporting error and time lag problems, the new system is expected to serve as a further deterrent to fraud. The number of fraud cases where the issue is whether the recipient understood income and eligibility reporting requirements is expected to decline.

The improved reporting system is a part of a plan to refine the welfare system announced by Swoap earlier this week at the annual meeting of the County Welfare Directors' Association. With the focus on Aid to Families with Dependent Children, the plan also calls for new procedures to identify illegal aliens receiving aid, stepped-up efforts to obtain child support from deserting parents of families on welfare, and attempts to curb confusion and abuse in the Food Stamp Program.

New AFT Local Is Organized

Teachers and other non-administrative school employees of the Monterey Peninsula Unified School District have announced the formation of a new local of the American Federation of Teachers, AFL-CIO.

Until this year union teachers in Monterey were members of AFT Local 1020 which encompassed all of Monterey County.

Charles Lovett, President of the new AFT Local 457 said, "We are regrouping. We are preparing for collective bargaining which will come to school employees within the next two or three years - when we get a new governor. We need to concentrate on organizing school employees into a union which does not allow administrators and whose

ARMY RECRUITER

Hi everyone.

Finding an appealing career is not an easy task. Good pay, chances to advance, excitement, challenge -- everyone wants those aspects in his wor,. Today it is even more important to find a career that is relevant, one that make you a contributing memmber of the community.

A career in law enforcement can offer a variety of benefits. It also can be risky at times; the qualifications for entrance aren't the easiest, and the hours may not always be 9 to 5. But the profession is rewarding. Nationwide, 330,000 men and women are in police work. Their varied assignments include giving first aid, directing traffic, investigating crimes and apprehending criminals. Chemical and microscopic analyses, handwriting and fingerprint identification are areas requiring specialized study.

Training is with experienced officers. In the classroom, alw is thoroughly examined from constitutional law to local ordinances. Self-defense methods are integral to training outside of class. Entrance salaries for police are high, averaging $8,500 yearly. Pay increases on a regular basis and promotions are granted after service of specified periods of time. Opportunities for advancement are numerous in the larger departments and you may be given the option to specialize in the area of your choice.

The police want men and women who can stand up under pressure. They also want those who can handle responsibility and want to make a contribution to the community. If you are a U.S. citizen, over 21 years of age, a high school graduate, and can meet height and weight standards, you can take competitive examinations to qualify as a police officer. Character traits, such as honesty and good judgement, are also important and are usually evaluated in an interview.

Men and women under 21 who are planning a career with the police force can take advantage of TODAY'S ARMY'S law enforcement training program at age 18. Many civilian police departments seek job applicants with Army police training.

More information on police training opportunities and many other jobs are available at TODAY'S ARMY recruiting office 431 Webster St., Monterey, or call 372-4742/372-0553.

DES Is Soldier Helping Others With Problems

The key to preventing alcohol and drug abuse is education...using classroom instruction, group and panel discussions, and training sessions for soldiers, commanders and supervisors, civilian employees, and dependents.

At the forefront of Fort Ord's alcohol and drug abuse prevention program is the Drug Education Specialist - the "DES." The DES is one of the many dedicated people helping combat alcohol and drug abuse. He is a para-professional and a concerned soldier working with alcohol and drug-troubled people in his own unit.

His aid can be limited counseling and education, or it can mean referring the individual to a helping agency, such as the post's Alcohol and Drug Abuse Division. He is trained to deal with those problems associated with the abuse of alcohol or drugs, and he is equipped with a knowledge of alternatives to them.

In short, the DES deals with the problems in the local or unit setting. His daily involvement with the unit makes him aware of problems before they become serious. He educates his unit about the problems of alcohol and drug abuse, and is its direct link with the Alcohol and Drug Abuse Division.

When you have finished with your copy of The POST, pass it on to a friend or relative.

Drill Sergeant Honored For Saving Trainee's Life

Quick thinking by a Fort Ord Drill Sergeant saved the life of a basic trainee.

The decisive action by Sergeant Howard E. Sellers, a drill sergeant in Company A of the 3rd Brigade's Third Battalion, earned him the Army Commendation Medal.

The career non-commissioned officer from Las Cruces, New Mexico, was supervising a group of trainees cleaning weapons when one of the men fell to the floor unconscious. Sergeant Sellers immediately called for an ambulance, and then beban checking the man for vital life signs.

When it was apparent the man had stopped breathing, Sergeant Sellers administered mouth-to-mouth resuscitation and restored the soldier's breathing. The trainee was taken to Silas B. Hays Army Hospital where he recovered fully.

Brig. Gen. Edward M. Markham, III, Fort Ord's deputy commander, presented the Army Commendation Medal to the sergeant in a ceremony before the massed soldiers of A-3-3.

New AFT

major concerns are the improvement of public education and the protection of the rights of school people whoever they might be - students, teachers, custodians, bus drivers, secretaries, whoever."

When asked if the AFT union was in competition with the California Teachers Association, Lovett said, "Yes. The state teacher association has long had leadership from school administration and has often pressed for legislation which has been detrimental to teachers of California. Two good examples of this are the Winton Act and the Stull Act. These were both sponsored by CTA and they have now come out in favor of a voucher plan for California schools. Teachers in the association locally have not always agreed with the state association, but you see, the one thing CTA has had going for it is that it is a major insurance company and many people belong to it because they can get a good rate on auto and home insurance.

Our major concern, as I mentioned before, has been and will continue to be the improvement of public education and the protection of the rights of school people. But in order to accomplish our goals we need to become the majority employee organization and so we must also get into the insurance business. We now are able to furnish our members with insurance plans that are competitive with CTA."

As far as merger between the union and the association is concerned, Lovett said he didn't see much chance in the near future. He said that the AFT is not about to give up AFL-CIO affiliation and the association is not yet ready to accept AFL-CIO affiliation. "Maybe when we are in a challenging position for exclusive representation they'll want talk."

Health Department Checking Cadmium In Soil

California Health and Welfare Secretary Earl Brian has directed the state Department of Health to conduct a special study of potentially harmful cadmium traces detected in some state agricultural areas.

Brian said the study is being undertaken as a result of recent research which indicated that greater amounts of cadmium have been found in certain areas of the Salinas Valley than is normally found in the soil.

Department of Health officials said that small amounts of cadmium, like many other natural elements, are taken up by plants through their roots in the normal course of growth. Humans would have to consume huge amounts of nothing but the few products grown in certain soil areas, over a long period of time, in order to build up possibly harmful amounts of cadmium in the body.

"There are no immediate short-term dangers to humans from the presence of small amounts of cadmium in foods," Brian, a physician, said.

"We are concerned about possible long-term effects, and want to make sure that an immediate investigation by health officials is conducted to protect the health of California citizens and the reputation of California farm products."

"There is no cause for alarm or avoidance of farm products: traces of cadmium can be found in vartually all foods, and the slightly higher levels of cadmium in products from certain areas in California requires further investigation, not a quarantine," Brian said.

The health department has been participating in an interagency study of cadmium, along with the University of California at Davis, the Water Resources Control Board and the State Department of Food and Agriculture. Many other substances found naturally in soil, crop and animal samples taken from California locations have been examined in the pilot project. A report of the project, as well as data from other state and federal agencies, will form the basis of the special health department study.

"A major part of the job of the Health and Welfare Agency is to protect the health of our citizens," Brian said.

"This special study will be undertaken to make sure that we fully understand the possible effects of cadmium particules in the soil, and to assure our citizens that the foods they eat are safe."

Unemployment Down, Rate Remains At 5.2 In State

California's unemployment rate in October remained at 5.2 percent, where it has been for the past five months, according to the Department of Human Resources Development, which issued the monthly employment statistics recently.

Unemployment in October was 394,000, a reduction of 16,000 from the September figure of 410,000 and the lowest number of unemployed since December, 1969. The withdrawal of students and other summer jobseekers from the labor force was the primary cause of the drop in unemployment.

Total employment was 8,721,900 in October, a decrease of 34,700 from September's record total. Between September and October, the number of people in jobs and the number of jobseekers both went down slightly, mainly because of a slowing down of seasonal farm and farm-related activities, the Department said.

As expected, in view of California's large agricultural indistry, the number of people in farm jobs declined the most, down 41,000 from 359,700 in September to 318,700 in October. Employment in manufacturing also dropped, chiefly because of seasonal reductions in fruit and vegetable canning, agricultural chemical production and lumbering. Other seasonal decreases were in construction, transportation, trade and services, most of which were related directly or indirectly to the decline in outdoor work or tourist-related activities.

Offsetting these reductions, however, was an increase of 36,000 in government payrolls, also seasonal, related to the back-to-school upturn in education employment.

Compared with a year ago, the Department's figures show an overall employment growth of 3.3 percent. In terms of jobs, this was an increase of 277,900 over the year. Greatest over-the-year growth was in manufacturing, with 4.9 percent more jobs. The least growth was in government and transportation-utilities, each of which registered 1.5 percent growth.

Guest Editorial

by Clarence M. Kelley
Director of F.B.I.

Crime is a tragic human activity. This fact is all too real to its victims. The realities of crime, however, are obscure to many who, fortunately, have had no confrontation with it.

The tragedy of crime is compounded by the idea of "victimless crimes." Proponents of this idea argue that persons who engage in the vice crimes - gambling, drugs, prostitution, certain homosexual practices, and obscenity - do so willingly and are rarely complaining witnesses of the activity. Some even contend that these acts should not further tax law enforcement resources under the cloak of illegality.

By promoting the concept of victimless crimes, many persons, particularly those who commit them, are encouraged to rationalize these activities at their worst as social transgressions and at their best as simply matters of personal taste. This thinking regrettably merchandises the notion that persons who indulge the vices bring no harm to anyone but, if at all, themselves.

This is a mistake. Besides the debasement they bring to the fundamental nobility of life, gambling, drugs, prostitution, homosexual behavior, and obscenity generate and accommodate a broad range of serious lawlessness. All of these offenses depend on accomplices who are principally to be found in public places. As a result, the activities lend themselves to exploitation by organized crime elements that can provide the facilities and services which permit the vices to flourish.

It assaults commonsense to contend, as some persons do, that the so-called victimless crimes are damaging to only a few. Experience convinces us that the vices are corrosive to many having any contact with them - particularly innocent, adventuresome, and impressionable youth.

Can any responsible person seriously suppose that the vices would dimminish if unregulated by law? Can anyone persuasively argue that the quality of life in our society would be as good or better with unrestrained vice activity? I think not.

There is no such thing as a victimless crime. Society is the ultimate and most aggrieved victim of all crime. This seems especially true of the vice crimes because of their impoverishment of the human spirit.

The law enforcement profession cannot be distracted, or the public deluded, from combating crime - whatever its nature.

Letter To The Editor

Editor:

How would each of us act if in the President's shoes, if seemingly more and more "skeletons in the closet" became exposed from week to week or if increasing public distrust of one's integrity forced one who occupied the White House into a corner?

Would one squirm this way and that for a way out? Keeping silent for long stretches hoping things "would blow over?" If forced to speak out at last, would one contrive a slippery explanation of a sort, leaving much unanswered and directly conflicting with what was said before? Cry out: "It's all politics!"? Put on a long face and pose as seriously engrossed in solving difficult problems facing the nation and the world with no time to waste on recrimination?

Perhaps give in on some point when forced to do so? Hope a friendly Attorney General, or Court, or segment of Congress will come to the rescue? Use the tremendous power of the Executive branch to intimidate foes by digging up possibly unsavory facts about them? Plan with advisers every possible legal maneuver to thwart the hounds "breating down one's back?" Would one take the high road of extolling the Constitution with its separation of powers of government? Imply, thereby, that the Executive branch is a separate world in itself - untouchable? Set forth a thinly disguised version of the hoary "divine right of kings?"

However, I know exactly what I would do if in such a tough spot. Humbly I would say: "I'm sorry. Somehow, I have developed over the years a moral chasm as large - if not anywhere near as magnificent - as the Grand Canyon. Somehow, happily, I have finally mustered the courage to forego further deception and to admit it. So, folks, I resign as President. I am terribly upset by the distress I caused my nation.

"Find a new Captain of the Ship of State. Hopefully, may he be one who can steer wisely, compassionately and honestly towards the destination of a better nation and world."

The YWCA of the Monterey Peninsula is deeply indebted to you for giving us such prominence on your first page in the October 3, 1973 issue of the Seaside POST News-Sentinel. We are indebted because, as a movement dedicated to the needs of women and girls, we often have a difficult time finding adequate opportunity to highlight the importance of our work.

Your response to our need for exposure to the community, whose needs we hope to serve, and your assistance in getting our story across to the diverse groups who can be a part of the YWCA, indicates strongly your own personal commitment to the creation of a better quality of life ... a commitment that parallels our own. We thank you, again.

Sincerely,
Mrs. James Brittain,

C of C Progress Report

by Verlaine Crawford

It was a huge success!! The Olde-Fashioned Picnic, held on Sunday, October 29, was attended by over 5000 people, who enjoyed one of the sunniest and warmest October days at the Monterey County Fairgrounds.

Maj. Gen. Robert G. Gard, Jr., Fort Ord's new commanding general played first base on the military team in the "V.I.P. softball game. Mayor of Monterey, Peter Coniglio and Seaside Council Members Billie Barton and Glenn Olea were among those playing on the civilian team which won 12-3. Gen. Gard said the military side was doing fine until the civilians decided to get serious.

Among the day's events were tournament playoffs in softball, where the civilian Monterey team defeated the Naval Postgraduate School. In men's Volleyball, Seaside beat the Navy team; and in women's volleyball, Marina won over Carmel.

Sports chairman of the event, Bill Houle of Monterey did a fine job calling the plays for the sporting events. Bob Levergood of the Monterey Peninsula Chamber helped organize.

Chairmen of the Picnic were Ray Stepniak of MBS and Sgt. Bill Brown of Fort Ord. They are both Board members of the Seaside Chamber of Commerce. Ray could be seen from one end of the Fairgrounds to the other, making sure everything was under control. Bill did a tremendous job organizing a contingent of 45 Army personnel to clean up the fairgrounds (even cut the grass) and prepared enough food for everyone. The two of them were seen cutting pies for the pie-eating contest and trying to stabilize the raucus crowd of children who wanted to participate.

The "Men of the Year" from each participating city and each military installation received $25 gift certificates and dinner for two at local restaurants. (All donated by the stores and restaurants).

Army Person of the Year, 1st Sgt. Henry Foss, Co. B. 3 Batt., 3 Brigade, Fort Ord, received $25 Gift Certificate from TV Mart in Seaside and Dinner for 2 at the Holiday Inn, Monterey.

Navy Person of the Year, Petty Officer, 2nd Class Adrian Eisenlord, PGS, 3rd Division, received $25 Gift Certificate from Sears, Seaside and Dinner for 2 at Willie Lums China Row, Monterey.

Air Force Person of the Year, Staff Sgt. Richard Orzino, Defense Language Institute, received $25 Gift Certificate from Monte Mart, Del Rey Oaks, and Dinner for 2 at the Hog's Breath Restaurant, Carmel.

Marine Person of the Year, Staff Sgt. Johnny Cantrell, Admin. Det., Defense Language Institute received $25 G.C. from MBS Discount Center, Seaside and Dinner for 2 at the Hog's Breath in Carmel.

Coast Guard Person of the Year, Yeoman 1st Class Roland Steibel, received $25 G.C. from Dick Bruhn Store, Carmel and Dinner for 2 at Raphaels Restaurant, Fairgrounds Travelodge, Monterey.

Seaside Person of the Year, Father Charles Moore received $25 G.C. from H&H Supply, Seaside and Dinner for 2 at the York on Cannery Row.

Monterey Person of the Year Don Boston received $25 G.C. from Macy's, Del Monte Shopping Center and Dinner for 2 at the Whaler in Monterey.

Pacific Grove Pefson of the Year, Chief Eldred Humiston, received $25 G.C. from Holman's, Pacific Grove and Dinner for 2 at the Windjammer in Monterey.

Marina Person of the Year Clay Wagner received $25 G.C. from Broadway Florist and Emporium in Seaside and Dinner for 2 at the Holiday Inn in Monterey.

Carmel Person of the Year received $25 G.C. from McKay's Camera Shop, Monterey and Dinner for 2 at the Royal Inn Butcher Block Restaurant, Monterey.

Receiving Trophies in the Contest were: Football Throw -- Joe Weber and Al and Ken Smith in the Father-Son. Basketball -- Douglass Pettiford and Al and Mike Smith. Softball -- Joe Rothwell and Jose Torres, Jr. and Sr. Benjamin Franklin won the pie-eating contest.

Beauty Queens presented the trophies and awards. They were Jo Anne Ford, Miss Black Teenage California; Marsheila Devan, Miss Black Teenger Monterey Peninsula; Catherine Adams, Miss Marina; Tessie Dela Pena, Miss FilAmerican Club; and Janies Carrol, Miss North Monterey County.

The Drawings were won by picnickers who had tickets for the barbecue. The prizes included 5 portable radios, 2 outdoor barbecue grills, dinner for 2 at Gallatins in Monterey and Dinner for 4 at the Far East Cuisine in Marina.

Outstanding entertainment was presented by musical groups, including the Elements of Peace and Bobby Clark "The Magician." Dick Bragg was Master of Ceremonies. Heidi Steudler and her crew from Special Services at Fort Ord did a great job organizing the entertainment for the Picnic.

Jim Ark, of the USO, John Logan from Cypress Press and Eileen Lang of Del Monte Properties spent nearly all afternoon selling tickets at the gate, with the help of some noble servicemen and relief from the Seaside Post Editor Tom Nash.

The JayCees donated their time and booth to sell beer at the Picnic, and the Kiwanis donated their booth for the distribution of the free orange drinks donated by McDonald's.

Gerda Jones, Office Manager of the Seaside Chamber, and my mother, Elaine Crawford, made the tournament more pleasant by selling beer at the playing field.

Cecil Bindel of Cecil's Ice Cream donated his time to sell ice cream at the Fairgrounds.

There are probably more people to thank, but Mr. Nash will undoubtably run out of space with this long winded appraisel of a wonderful day.

SOBER THOUGHTS

Drinking and Driving will kill about 400 persons during the Holidays. It doesn't have to. You can stop it. Drive Sober.

Happy Holiday means driving sober. Drinking is involved in half of California's traffic deaths. What a waste. And it doesn't have to happen. Drive Sober. Keep Santa Claus Alive.

It's not fair to drink and then drive. It's not fair to your kids and it's not fair to all the other kids whose lives you can mess up forever. Drunk drivers kill people. Drive sober. Don't let Santa Claus get killed.

Some of you are going to miss the holidays this year. You're going to be dead because of drinking and driving. Unless you don't drink and drive.

Is Santa Claus a drunk driver? Only you know the answer. Just remember, the kids are counting on you.

There were 5,000 persons killed in traffic accidents last year. Half of these involved slcohol. You can stop it. Drive Sober.

Drinking and driving can mean empty stocking over the fireplace. Holidays are for fun. Not funerals. Drive Sober.

One of the best ways to ruin the holidays for everybody is to get into your car after you've been drinking. Sure, it won't happen to you. Somebody else. Well, last year drinking-driving killed 2,500 of those somebody elses who thought it would be you instead of them. Drive Sober. For the kids. They Love You.

Navy Gives 6 Airplanes

The U.S. Navy has turned over the first six of a fleet of 50 S-2 Firebird aircraft to the California Division of Forestry for use in the state's aerial firefighting force.

Governor Ronald Reagan officially accepted the aircraft October 25 from Vice Adm. Robert B. Baldwin, commander of the Pacific Fleet Naval Air force during a brief ceremony at the North Island Naval Air Station in San Diego.

The six aircraft were formerly used as carrier-based antisubmarine aircraft and were flown to California from the Naval Air Station at Corpus Christi, Texas where they were last used as trainers and for logistic support.

The other 44 twin-engine S-2s are at the Davis-Monthan Air Force Base aircraft storage facility in Arizona. They will be flown to California within the next few months.

The Firebirds, first built by the Grumman Aircraft Co. in 1951, have been used by the Navy for more than 20 years and hold the record for accident-free flying among Navy carrier-based aircraft. In June 1971 the Navy agreed to turn over four S-2s on a 15-year lease for testing by the U.S. Forest Service, the California Division of Forestry, and California air tanker operators.

Eight hundred-gallon tanks were mounted in two of these in early 1973, and the first Firebird airtanker was placed in service June 17. The plane made its first fire drop that same day.

Civilian pilots under contract to the Division of Forestry fly the state's aerial tankers from 13 airports located the length of California, covering nearly 30 million acres of forest land.

As I See It

by Mel Vercoe

The Women's Liberation Front made great headway in some areas, gaining recognition for female rights and paving the way, I suppose, toward the great day when the law will uphold their Constitutional right to use men's restrooms if they so choose.

But in one area of endeavor I believe they have gone too far, and may have caused much unhappiness for many people. For many years the fine upstanding art of printing suggestive stories and showing nude photographs in magazines was done from the male viewpoint almost entirely. With the exception of some nudist publications or maybe some homosexual magazines, the photographs were of females and intended to brighten the days or nights of male readers.

Anyway, as a result practically anyone who wanted to know about female anatomy could find out by counsulting the magazine rack at the local drug store or liquor store.

This educational program, however, offered nothing for the female who was graduating from childhood and beginning to wonder about marriage and having children but who hadn't the slightest idea about how hum'n males were constructed under their swimming trunks. Except for some puritan spinsters these females could, of course, find out all they wanted to know by getting married or getting a word description from some fortunate acquaintance.

But let's take a hypothetical case where the female was an upstanding member of the community, got herself married to the richest boy in town, and was quite happy until one tragic day when she went to the drug store to buy a magazine about dress patterns. For, alas, there on the rack next to the dress patterns was a new magazine, Playgirl, designed to do for women what the girlie magazines did for men, and horror of horrors, our poor heroine picks it up out of curiosity and looks inside and sees a handsome movie star, stark naked except for a wrist watch, and worst of all, this movie star makes her aforementioned husband look about as desirable as a baby picture of Liberace.

Well, you can guess what happened after that. She lives unhappily ever after, unless she packs her suitcase and takes off alone to look for the movie star, and that is one of the sad results of the gung-ho drive to get equal rights for women. It just causes a lot of unhappiness. Constitution or no Constitution, I think we should keep those Playgirl magazines away from women.

CYA Parolee Earns Carnegie Medal

Donald Ray Brazile, a 21-year-old Youth Authority parolee, has been awarded the Carnegie Medal, one of the nation's top awards for heroism, it was announced recently.

Brazile, who pulled a four-year-old girl from a blazing car in Los Angeles last year, will receive his medal October 24 during ceremonies dedicating a new Intensive Treatment Program at the Southern Reception Center-Clinic. Earl Brian, secretary of the Health and Welfare Agency, and Allen F. Breed, director of the Youth Authority, will participate in the ceremonies.

The award to Brazile, which includes a $500 monetary presentation as well as a bronze medal, is made by the Carnegie Hero Fund Commission, which was established in 1904 by Andrew Carnegie to recognize outstanding acts of selfless heroism.

Brazile, then 19, happened to be nearby on March 10, 1972 when a car being driven by Mrs. E.H. Mayer of Los Angeles was struck at high speed by another automobile. Mrs. Mayer's car, in which her three small children were riding as passengers, burst into flames.

Brazile raced over to the car and helped Mrs. Mayer and two of the children to safety. He had to brave the flames and pry loose a jamed seat to rescue the third child, Elizabeth Mayer, and it was for this latter fact that he was awarded the medal.

On May 9, 1972, young Brazile was publicly honored by Governor Reagan, who presented him with a plaque signifying "Special Award for Heroism" during a meeting of the National Safety Council in Anaheim.

Brazile, who is now married and has a baby daughter, has been working as a roofing apprentice and mainteance man, but is for the moment unemployed.

Enlists

William C. Edde of 337 Carentan Road, was enlisted into the Navy during ceremonies held recently in Oakland.

Edde will report initially to San Diego for nice weeks of recruit training before his assignment to Operations Specialties School.

Edde, a graduate of Seaside High School, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Edde.

Pearl Carey Nominated For 'Woman Of Achievement'

Mrs. Pearl Carey of Seaside has been chosen to represent the Monterey Peninsula Business and Professional Women's Club in the National Business and Professional Women's "Woman of Achievement" competition.

Mrs. Carey, the current president of the MPBPW Club, has been active as a member since 1966.

Her qualifications will be judged with other Peninsula District candidates at its Winter Conference later this year. Selected candidates of this judging will then be considered for State "Woman of Achievement" and the National selection.

She is active in many other civic and political organizations and philanthropic groups, and is employed as a Manpower Service Representative with the Department of Human Resources Development in Monterey.

She is the wife of retired Army man, Ralph Carey and has been a resident in this area for over 23 years.

IN CHARGE - Heading Multiple Sclerosis "Hope Chest" Campaign from November 12 - 18 is Mrs. John O'Grady of Salinas, overall chairman of National Society's Greater Monterey Bay Area Chapter.

Here's How You Can Conserve Energy

In support of the President's energy conservation program, the Treasury Department has listed selected actions that could be taken by the American public and industry to reduce energy demand.

"Savings could amount to the equivalent of about three million barrels of oil a day, assuming an all-out effort," according to William E. Simon, Deputy Secretary of the Treasury and Chairman of the President's Oil Policy Committee.

Total U.S. oil consumption presently is about 17 million barrels a day. The United States imports about six million barrels of oil daily, of which 1.1 million barrels come directly from North Africa and the Middle East, 2.7 million come from the Caribbean and Latin America, and 1.4 million from Canada.

"The savings resulting from these conservation measures are an impressive indicator of just how much waste could be eliminated from our energy consumption habits without severe economic consequences or major changes in life style.

If consumers would voluntarily implement these measures, the savings could enable the United States to avoid an energy problem," Mr. Simon said.

Savings for industry are based on a two percent cutback in fuel use (almost 280,000 barrels per day), which can be achieved within 60 days. Another three percent (over 400,000 b/d) can be achieved within six months. Industry sources estimate that ten percent savings are entirely feasible within 18 months.

The savings for commercial buildings are based on a ten percent cut in fuel use, and can easily be achieved with little or no cost, such as changing thermostat settings and reducing use of lighting.

The actions consumers can follow to save on fuel consumption include:

*Adding insulation to ceilings (6") and walls (4");

*Installing storm windows and dorrs, caulking, and weatherstripping;

*Properly maintaining heating systems; removing dust from registers and ducts, replacing and cleaning filters, and adjusting burners;

*Opening drapes and venetian blinds on sunny days, and closing them at night;

*Installing and using humidifiers; and

*Lowering thermostat settings at night and when buildings or rooms are unoccupied.

Delta Kappa Gammans Hear Of Education

At its October meeting, members of Alpha Lambda chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma, national honor society for women in education, heard Ronald W. Cobley of Pacific Grove talk on Changing Times and Continuing Education.

Mr. Cobley has already established an external degree college on the peninsula and looks forward to the idea being applied to high school students with fixed objectives who are able to set their own goals and are interested in working out their own courses of study.

This external degree college is an extension of Monterey Peninsula College to provide the last two years of a four-year curriculum. It is accredited under the John F. Kennedy University of Martinez, California.

The basic purpose of an external degree college is to help people on full time jobs or those with family responsibilities which prevent their going away to college or of fitting into resident requirement cirricula.

With counseling, a decidated student may work out his own course of study leading to the coveted academic degree.

The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. M.F. de Voe in Carmel.

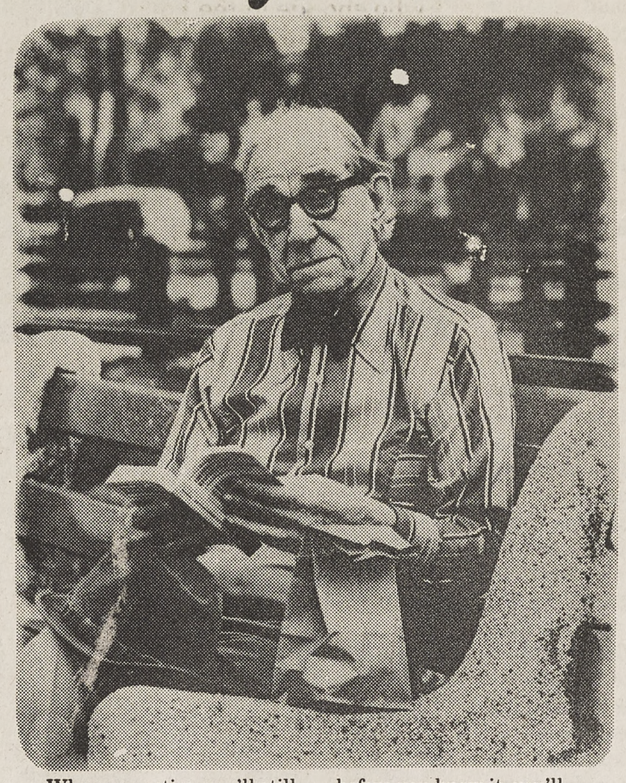
You're never too old to yearn.



When you retire, you'll still want to take vacations.

When you retire, you'll still want to buy new clothes, have an occasional night out, drive a newer car, buy gifts, and be independent.

Will you be able to?

If you have your health there's only one thing that's going to keep you from living the way you want to. Lack of money.

That's where U.S. Savings Bonds come in. You can join the Payroll Savings Plan where you work right now. That way an amount you specify will be set aside from your paycheck and used to buy Bonds. It's an almost painless way to save, and before you know it, you'll have a sizeable nest egg built up for your retirement years.

Giving License Extensions

About a half-million California drivers, whose licenses ordinarily would expire in 1974, will get a free ride next year and will be notified that their license period has been extended until their birthdays in 1975.

State Department of Motor Vehicles Director Robert C. Cozens announced that the department is randomly selecting 500,000 drivers whose records are clear of serious violations or accidents and will mail them automatic extension certificates good for one year.

The extensions were authorized when Governor Ronald Reagan signed SB 1301, authored by Senator Fred Marler of Redding. It will help to equalize the workload of DMV, Cozens said.

Cozens explained that about 17 percent more licenses will expire in 1974 than in previous years. This was caused by legislation passed in 1965 which reduced the maximum license term from five years to four.

"This resulted in five-year licenses getting out of phase and jamming our offices every four years," Cozens said. "In 1970 the situation was especially hectic."

Certificates of extension will be mailed near the end of October to approximately 50,000 persons whose licenses are due to expire in January of 1974. Thereafter, 40 to 50 thousand extensions will be mailed monthly until the volume of renewal applicants is stabilized.

"We should be able to equalize the number of our renewals in three to four years under this program," Cozens stated.

Only motorists with no serious violations or accidents in three years of driving will be selected by DMV's computer for automatic extension.

"Obviously, not everyone in that category will be selected because more will qualify than we need to extend," Cozens stated. "The computerized random selection is the best and fairest method we could come up with."

About four and one half million driver's livenses are issued annually by the Department each year, of which three million are renewals. "This puts quite a heavy load on the less than 500 examiners in the state," Cozens concluded, "and the additional 17 percent every four years strains their ability to administer tests efficiently."

"OH THE DRUMS GO BAND," - McDonald's All-American High School Band will march and perform in Macy's Thanksgiving Day Parade for seventh consecutive year. The All-American Band is under direction of famed maestro Paul Lavalle, musical director of Radio City Music Hall, and is sponsored by McDonald's Corporation. The 102-member band is composed of nation's top high school musicians - two from each state and two from District of Columbia. The Band will also appear for sixth consecutive year in Tournament of Roses Parade in Pasadena on New Year's Day.

CHP Zone To Include Bay Area

Creation of a new Highway Patrol zone on California's central coast was announced by Commissioner Walter Pudinski in the first major realignment of the Patrol's field administrative structure in 14 years.

Supervising Inspector E.B. Taylor will command Zone VII, which incorporates Monterey, San Benito, San Luis Obispo, Santa Cruz, Santa Barbara and Ventura Counties, plus a small slice of southern Santa Clara County. Deputy Zone Commander is Inspector R.R. Roese.

For Taylor the assignment also means a promotion. Now an inspector, he serves as deputy zone commander in Zone III, San Francisco. He is a 25-year CHP veteran. Inspector Roese is assigned to the Office of Inspection in Sacramento Headquarters, and has also been with the Patrol 25 years.

The new zone will be activiated January 1, 1974, but the command staff was named this week to permit establishment of a zone office, and installation of communications and other facilities. The zone office temporarily will be operated out of the San Luis Obispo Area office.

The Patrol's six-zone geographical layout was established in 1959 and has been unchanged since except for minor boundary moves or upgrading of local offices within zones.

Zone VII takes 10 CHP Area Offices now assigned to other zones, forming a "unified coastal command with common enforcement problems, similar terrain and weather," Pudinski said. "This alignment shortens the control span, facilitates radio communications, and cuts travel time between zone and area offices."

Pudinski said "this gives us the administration flexibility to improve service to the public. We can respond faster to situations which overlap area boundaries, and increase uniformity in handling enforcement problems typical of this coastal belt."

The Zone VII 13-man uniformed staff includes auto theft investigators and a noise-monitoring team. A non-uniformed motor carrier inspection unit will be based at the new office.

The ten areas assigned to Zone VII include 442 uniformed personnel who patrol 1,356 miles of state highway and 6,170 miles of county road. The zone covers 11,639 square miles.

CHP area offices included are Hollister-Gilroy, Monterey, Santa Cruz, King City, Paso Robles, San Luis Obispo, Santa Maria, Buellton, Santa Barbara and Ventura.

Hearing On Welfare For Aged Is Set

A hearing on the state's plan to protect welfare grant levels for the state's aged, blind, and disabled will be held November 16 in Los Angeles, State Welfare Director David B. Swoap has announced.

The hearing will cover regulations developed by the Department of Social Welfare to add state funds to the basic federal welfare grant under the new "HR 1" adult aid program. Swoap said his department was progressing on an orderly, planned schedule to implement a state supplemental payment play by January 1, the date when the federal program begins operation.

The regulations to be reviewed at the November 16 hearing will raise the grants to individuals to $221 a month.

"I would like to again assure Californians, particularly those recipients affected by HR 1, that their assistance payments will be protected," Swoap said.

"Our plan calls for increases averaging $20 for 87 percent of the adult needy while insuring that the remaining 13 percent -- those already over $221 -- will not suffer a grant decrease."

Swoap announced the hearing date at an American Public Welfare Association conference here. The hearing will be at 10:30 a.m. in the Hall of Administration Building at 500 West Temple, Room 381.

Swoap said the regulations themselves would be issued later this month.

Fighting To Save $40 Million In State Clean-Up Funds

Congressman Glenn Anderson (D-Calif.) recently moved to block an Environmental Protection Agency proposal which would result in the loss of $40 million to California in Federal water clean-up grants.

Under the provisions of the Federal Water Pollution Control Act of 1972, which was co-authored by Anderson, the Federal government is authorized to reimburse states for half of the cost of constructing pollution control facilities that were built between 1966 and 1972.

However, the EPA's proposed regulations ignore the law, and would reimburse only specific projects, resulting in the loss of $40 million to California, according to Anderson

Some 24 states, including California, would receive no reimbursement for facilities constructed before the Act went into effect in 1972. But, the remaining states would receive the entire $1.9 billion allocated by Congress for reimbursement. New York State, for example, would receive 100 percent of its entitlement, or $1.2 billion.

"California should not be punished or discriminated against for taking the lead in constructing waste treatment facilities before the Federal government got into the act," Anderson said.

"The law was written specifically to aid those states which took the initiative to clean up the pollution in their waters. But now the EPA wants to disregard the law and only reimburse certain areas," the former Lt. Governor said.

"In California, we made a commitment to clean up the rivers, lakes and harbors before Federal laws were established, and we were willing to pay for the projects. However, the Federal law of 1972 was designed to make up for the lack of action of the national level," he explained.

"Simply because we posses a little more foresignt than some states should not be held against us," Anderson concluded.

Between 1966 and 1972, California constructed approximately $88 million worth of eligible water pollution control facilities. But since only 80 percent of the money allocated for reimbursement has been made available by the Federal government, California's share would total approximately $40 million.

"...also taught me to check with the Better Business Bureau before transacting future business deals."

Dear Better Business Bureau,

This is to inform you that I have received a check in the amount of $48.28 as full refund for the order in question. Thank you very much.

Your prompt and efficient response to my complaint was, indeed, gratifying. It greatly bolstered my confidence in the American way of doing business, but also taught me to check with the Better Business Bureau before transacting future business deals with unknown companies.

Yours for a better and prosperous America.

Maurice F. McDonald

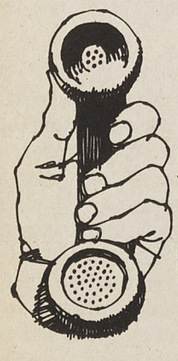
We can save you money before you spend it.

The Better Business Bureau has one job only: to help you get your money's worth. That's why we make it our business to know as much as we can about as many businesses as we can. We can tell you what to look for . . . and look out for . . . in many products and services. We have information, too, on stores and businesses.

And as the letter above testifies, we'll help after you spend. On any problem. With any product or service. Because when you're unhappy, it's bad for you and for business. And no one knows that better than the businessmen who support the BBB.



SPEAK UP.

Call your Better Business Bureau. Helping you get your money's worth.

The above is the exact content of the letter as written, with the deletion of names where legally required. In cases where a letter was hard to read, it was re-written for legibility.
